Functionality in Emergency Situations

The Company certifies that industry best practices are followed in the design of its network and switching center which allow it to remain functional in emergency situations. This functionality is accomplished through the use of 48 volt DC batteries and an onsite backup power generator which allow the company to remain functional during emergency power outages. The batteries and backup power sources are regularly maintained and tested in accordance with industry guidelines and manufacturer recommendations. Fully charged batteries allow the communications system to remain operational for a minimum of 8 hours. Through the use of batteries and the onsite power generator the Company can maintain functionality without an external power source.

The Company's fiber-to-the-home (FTTH) customers are provided with a battery backup at the customer premises which will maintain the customer's phone service for up to 3 hours of "in use" service time.

The Company's network is designed to handle excess traffic which may occur during emergency outages. Farmers Mutual Cooperative Telephone Company routinely monitors traffic levels to ensure adequate capacity exists for both routine operations as well as abnormal traffic spikes which could occur in an emergency situation. The companies' network is engineered with redundancy where feasible to allow the company to re-route traffic in case network facilities are damaged.

The Company's service is consistent with the requirements and the obligations to provide service in emergency situations as set forth in § 54.202(a)(2).
